R-Three Cheers for New Website

One of the UK's leading retail and leisure recruitment consultancies, R³ Resourcing, has today launched an exciting new website, www.r-three.co.uk, which has a number of user-friendly features, as well as useful information for job hunters around the UK.

The Birmingham and Manchester-based company has completely redesigned their website and made it much easier to navigate and to search for positions. "We've chosen a fresh, clean look, and have divided the site into distinct client and candidate areas – making sure that visitors can access what they want straight away" explained Managing Director Alison Tawn. "We've also included a live news feed on our homepage, which covers all of the top retail and leisure stories, a dynamic new job search tool which is constantly updated, and a 'job of the week' feature to help candidates find the right position for them" she said.

With year-on-year growth of over 60% announced earlier this year, R³ is enjoying a period of significant business development, and although they have already recently taken on six new consultants they are still looking for more people to join their team. "The new site includes an area specifically for people looking to move into recruitment, as well as some testimonials from our Consultants and Managing Consultants so visitors can get a flavour of what it's really like working here. Anyone interested can contact us through the site and we'll get straight back to them" she concluded.

R³ is an innovative recruitment consultancy which services the specialist retail, leisure and sales sectors. Experienced teams look after a portfolio of clients, which includes a variety of industry and sector leaders, from offices in Birmingham, Manchester and London.
